THE PIRE IN THE REAR. Mr. Hall, in one of his late speeches in the Federal Congress, denouncing the idea of surrendering the Confederate Commissioners, spoke of " a fire in the rear, which may soon hurl the administration from power," in case of its committing any egregions blunder, or adopting any very obnexious policy. Alluding at another time to the unconstitutionality of the system of arrests adopted by the government, he used the following language expressing a similar thought: "And it don't want a very great degree of faith to hear the distant rumblings of that thunder storm which will overwhelm this administration and this party in power, if they do not see the things that belong to the day and the hour before they are hidden from their eyes."

The causes which conspire to produce the result which Mr. Hall almost ventures to propheny, are numerous, perhaps more so than he himself is willing to confess. It is reported here to-day, on what is very good authority, that he had no sooner taken his position at Scottsville, than, being threatened by largely superior numbers of the enemy, he deemed it prudent to shift his ground. He left Scottsville, according to his report, and proceeded to the vicinity of Franklin, in Simpson county. This movement places him in the rear of our army home, and twenty-one miles only the same and the power of the government to issue them in payment of the public dues greatly increased. If the circulation should become at all redundant, the privilege of converting the notes into Confederate bonds, bearing 8 per cent. interest, paid in specie, will cause the speedy absorption of disloyalty by which we are menaced. It is thus upon greed national considerations, as a matter of military prudence that the compared to the vicinity of Franklin, in Simpson county.
